Poetry.

The Bale Mountain Scene.

ILLUSTRATING THE POWER OF PRAYER.

The Raleigh News of the 24 inst, contains a letter from a Bald Mountain correspondent, ascribing the recent earthquake to the earnest prayers of Posby B. Owensby, who, having vainly tried to get up a revival among the natives, appealed to the Almighty to manifest himself by shaking the earth under them, and who, when the mountain labored, tokk to his heels without waiting to point a moral).

Posey B. Owensby—may his tribe increase!—
Lives, or did live, while nature was at peace,
Near Old Bald Mountain's summit in the clouds,
Removed afar from city din and crowds,
Peaceful he ploughed his sweet potato patch,
In peace prepared his setting hens to hatch;
In peace toiled daily to increase his store,
And, peaceful still, wrought hard to make it more.
Fast by his humble vine-clad cabin stood—
Or stands, unless Old Bald in hungry mood
Has swallowed it—a country school house rude,
Builded of logs and daubed with plastic clay
To keep the winter's wind and summer's rain away.

Here on week days the rustic youth were taught,
Their "A B. Abs," and "two times naught is naught;"
On Sundays here good Posey sermons read
And called down sorrow on the sinner's head,
And often preached with orthodoxy's roar
Such Scripture tales as ne'er were heard before;
How Ananias and his greedy bride,
Touching a trade in turpentine, had lied;
How on the instant "both were lightnin' struck
'Cause God was wrathy at there weeked work;"
How Noah's life was shortened by a span
"'Cause that he teached distillin' onto man;"
How "Egion for his cruelness was gored
By Ehud, the left-handed, with a sword;"
How Sampson lost his hair, his eyes, his life,
"By tellin' holy secrets to his wife;"
And how in every age, in every clime,
The Lord's gad prods the sinner every time.

Bald Mountain's sons were heedless, and alas!
Her daughter's let the preacher's warnings pass,
One day there came a Raleigh scribe who spoke
And said, "I've heern Old Bald's begun to smoke."
Then Posey girded up his loins and cried
Unto the people on the mountain side;
And to the schoolhouse flocked they by the score
To hear the warnings they'd oft heard before
And heedless still the gaping neighbors heard
The thunder of the faithful preacher's word;
Nor would they groan "Amen!" nor scream, nor shout;
So the good shepherd's soul was vexed with doubt
Whether his exhortation or his prayer
Would save from torment any sinner there.

But, "Lord, send down the lighten', then," he prayed;
"Let these here wecked hearts be sore dismayed;
Let Bald's bowels bile and bust, oh, Lord!
And shake us up right smart!"—and at the word
There was a sudden subterranean quake
That made the rafters of the schoolhouse shake;
And from below there came a dreadful sound
As of storm demons battling underground.

One shrick, one yell of sinners rent the air,
And forth they rushed in terror and despair;
Forth to the road and down the rocky dell
Fled panting priest and populace pell-mell.
And when they passed the dwellers on the plain,
Lo! Posey Owensby led all the train!

Selected Story.

Not Lost.

Let me recount to you a true love story, a story of love pure and undefiled—love as it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end.

For love is all things in one to us. It is hope and fear and joy and despair; it is truth and it is falsehood: it is anything in short, that you are pleased to call it, and it can represent the brightness of heaven or the blackness of perdition.

"Love is a melting of the soul."

It was late in the afternoon of a dull autumnal day that a group of young people came chatting down the flight of stone steps leading from the door of a cathedral church, in an old Atlantic seaport town. They were members of a choral society attached to the church, and they had evidently been there for rehersal. Within, the great building yawned black and lonely, save in the gallery, where, over the organ, a gas jet spun rays of light in the gloom, and the sound of softly subdued voices broke through the stillness.

The visible occupants were two—a man and a maiden—young, and with the cabalistic word "lovers," gleaming as did the mysterious handwriting on the wall, on their foreheads. Robert Field, the organist, was turning over some sheets of manuscript music with an absorbed air, while by his side stood Hester Heathersleigh, her pretty face full of anxious interest as she watched his movements. A little cloud of uneasiness wrinkled her forehead now and then as she saw the rent edge of angry clouds scud by the narrow slit of window looking to east where the grey sea lay tossing stormily.

"Well Robert!" she said, dropping her slim hand on his shoulder. "Well Robert, what is it?"

The musician's dark, serious face lighted a moment, gloriously, as he turned and took the little gloved hands in his.

"I asked you to stay, Hester, because I wished to play for you some passages from my new piece. I shall submit it to the society at Music Hall to-morrow evening, and I want your opinion in advance."

The young girl laughed—a little rippling laugh of gleeful enthusiasm.

"My opinion! Why Robert, you know beforehand what that will be. It would be nothing but a form asking me."

Robert raised the little hand tenderly to his lips.

"I know that love makes gentle critics of us all," he said, wisely. "But now I want you to forget who is the author of the melody, and exercise your judgment without stint. Remember, too, that love is the theme; love which, whether wisely or unwisely, hopes all things, believes all things, and endures all things unto the end." And then he turned to the organ.

He played slowly at first. It was a lonely opening, full of strange, sad chords, as if the soul were waiting somewhere in shadow. Then, as brightness entered, the theme asserted itself. The wonderful tones climbed higher and higher, expressive of a greater faith, of fond, mad triumph, and bewildering joy. On and on the chords swept; it was as if a living chain of light ran round the world.

When he had finished there was silence for a moment between these two. The lingering echoes rolled back and forth till one by one, they too, escaped into stillness. Then Hester Heathersigh stooped, and, with quivering lips and tear wet eyes, reverently kissed the bowed forehead of her lover.

"Oh, my darling!" she cried, "it is so beautiful! I am so proud of you. Who taught you to play like that?"

A proud and satisfied smile carved Robert Field's lips as he listened. "My love for you taught me," he answered. "My love for you, which is so great, so all-absorbing, that my music seems to be but a poor expression of it."

Then lifting her head he gazed for a moment with wistfull tenderness into the rose-pink beauty of her small, sweet face.

"You think it is a triumph then, dear? Ah, Hester, are you sure you speak for the music itself, or only out of a tender mercy born of love for me?"

An indignant light brightened the pretty violet eyes out of the drowsy languor of youth's enchanting dreams.

"Tender mercy for you," she repeated. Then her voice changed. "Ah, Robert! if my love can make you write like that now, then your future life shall be full of inspiration, for I shall love you more and more the longer I know you. I shall love you more and more forever."

She wound her arm about his neck, and with tender maiden sweetness kissed his forehead, and kissed his wavy hair, and kissed the thin, pale hand which lay nervously on the yellow organ keys. And then a stillness crept about them, a stillness more fraught with eloquent joy than any measure of golden speech could have been.

While they thus stood hand in hand talking, the curtain behind partitioning off the gallery parted and a dark face peered through. It was a man's face, handsome but cruel in that purple gloom of gathering shadow. It was no friendly face, either, that with its many changes of hates and jealous anger and furious despair seemed, while the lovers talked, to be playing a dark and stormy accompaniment to the idyl of their love.

A sudden angry burst of wind at the narrow window roused them unpleasantly to a sense of night and the coming storm.

"Oh, the rain!" cried Hester, with a pale face. "How thoughtless of us to stay, and you have what long, desolate walk over the cliffs in the dark!"

"Never mind!" cried Robert, stoutly "There are such light and warmth within me that I shall not heed a passing touch of wind and water. I will see you to your door first, and then good night."

"My cousin Conrad promised to come for me," Hester answered. "I wonder what detains him. It is too bad for me to take you all this long way out of your way."

"I like it better so," the young man said, gravely. "I do not like your cousin Conrad, and I am not willing to trust you to his care. Oh, my little darling!" he went on earnestly, "if my music but brings me fame and fortune I can then make you all my own, and there will be no more partings in the storms for us."

They passed down the stairs and out into the street together, unconscious of the shadow closing upon them, nearer and blacker. At the door of Hester's home they parted with a lingering good bye.

"My precious music," cried Robert, buttoning his coat closer about him. "No harm must come to that. It represents fame and fortune and love and honor for thee and me, my darling."

Hester lifted a small wet face to peer into the gloom.

"I wish you could stay," she said, "And oh, Robert, be careful of the cliffs—the path is so lonely and dangerous. I shall come early to rehersal to-morrow for the sake of knowing that you are safe.

"Do!" he answered. "I shall bring you glad tidings. Success is too near for me to miss it now. Good night, my sweetheart" and so speaking he passed from her into the shadow of his waiting doom.

After that night of storm the day dawned clear and cool. At St Paul's the Choral Society just then in first flush of enthusiasm over a new oratorio, gathered early. One—Two—Three! the great bells chimed the hours and the singers waited impatient for their leader. Something had detained him most likely; he would come soon! The hour struck Four and he had not come, and Hester Heathersleigh, with a heart heavy as lead in her bosom, fell on her knees in an agony of prayer. "Oh my God!" she cried reckless of who might hear her. "He is dead. My Robert is dead! He has been lost in the cruel storm!"

Some one, pitying, touched her arm. It was her cousin, Conrad Charteris; he was looking down upon her with a pale face—a face paler far than that with which he had spied upon her yesterday from behind the gallery curtain. Her pitious cry had touched even his stony heart.

"Hush!" he whispered, "here is news from him—from Robert; come and hear what it is."

A note had been brought by a swift running messenger, and a shudder ran round the waiting circle of listeners when its contents was made known. It was signed by a leading physician of the city and stated that Robert Fields had been picked up that morning at the foot of the cliffs and taken home for dead. He was now, at the date of writing, lying in an insensible condition, and it was impossible to tell what the extent of his injuries were, or if there was any hope of his ultimate recovery.

A horror stricken silence followed the reading of the note, broken at last by a low sobbing cry from Hester Heathersleigh's white lips.

"I must go to him—oh, I must go to him! Who will take me? You! you!" and she caught Conrad Chartteris by the arm.

He shrank away from her with a gesture much as if she had pierced him with a knife. His black eyes horribly dilated.

"I? I go with you to see him?" he cried. "What are you thinking of? What do you take me for?" Then noting her astonished look he made a fierce struggle for composure; but his hands shook like withered leaves.

"Why do you wish to go to him?" he questioned angrily. "He would not recognize you—and it is no place for you! Let me take you home."

She snatched up her shawl and bound it with trembling fingers about her shoulders. "I tell you I shall go to him," she answered. "I was to have been his wife and living or dead, my place is now by his side. You can come with me if you like!" And she flew down the steps.

It seemed an age to her, that short time she was on the road leading to the lonely house of Robert Field's widowed mother; and when at last, by dint of her prayer and tears, she was suffered to approach his bed side, she looked down on a very different Robert Field from the one with whom she had parted in such hope the night before.

The bruises were chiefly about the head, the physician said gravely, and even if he recovered it was doubtful if his mind would ever be sound again. Hester heard him, and with a great sob fell on her knees by the bedside. Where now were the brilliant aspirations, and tender hopes, the gay courage and stout-hearted faith of one short day gone by? Lost! lost! Success so near to him and yet to fail. Triumph so nearly won, and yet to pass by on the other side.

"Robert, O my Robert! Look up! Speak to me, or I, too, shall die!"

Ah! but love remained. Love unchanged and unfaltering. This then, was left—the blessing of a love which believes all things, hopes all things, and endures all things unto the end.

The drawn white face on the pillow did not change at Hester's cry, but under the half-closed lids the dull eyes gleamed feebly and the slender hand outside on the coverlit groped helplessly. Hester took his hand in hers and then, quick as lightning, by some strange subtile instinct rather than by any demonstrations of his, she felt that the poor, stricken senses were trying to break through the darkness that enveloped them and make their unknown want understood.

"Robert, Robert! what is it?" she cried. "What is it that you want to make us understand?"

The helpless movement of his lips, the helpless groping of his fingers, were enough to make one weep. Hester bent her ear to his mouth.

"What is it Robert, dear? Tell me—what is it you want?"

The stiffened lips strove with a terrible effort to move, and this time one word was feebly articulated:

"Music!"

Hester looked up with a startled exclamation:

"Music! He calls for his music. Do you not hear? Where is it? Who knows about it? Is it lost? she questioned eagerly.

Again that terrible attempt at speech. The dull eyes opened wide, the feeble fingers clenched themselves on Hester's hand, and, with a last mad effort of expiring desperate strength, he raised himself, and shrieked:

"My music! Find it! Save it!" And then he fell back on his pillow like one dead.

"You have killed him" said the physician, angrily, and at the words Hester, with a mourn, dropped down insensible.

Not dead! But when, after weeks and months of painful illness, he faced the world again, he looked like a shadow out of the past. But bent and aged, with scarred forehead and whitened locks, the wreck of his body was not the greatest evil that had befallen him; for of the brilliant genius of other days no vestige was left. Saddest of all, the miserable ghost of his lost hopes haunted him, and in the ruined chambers of his darkened intellect he was forever groping, trying to gather up the mystic chords of tuneful thought which no longer vibrated to his magic touch. The lost manuscript music had never been recovered, and though his feeble mind failed to take in the greatness of the loss, the shadow of something beautiful which was to have been, but, somehow, failed to be, lay on him, and gave his face a wishful look, which was sadder far in its mute endurance than any wail of speech could have been.

Music was to him now something akin to the sound of "sweet bells jangled, out of tune and harsh."

One day in early spring he went to the church for the first time, leaning on Hester's arm. The old, familiar look of the place struck him forcibly and roused his dormant wits. He sat down to the organ and glided his hands over the keys; a few jangling discordant chords followed, wandering and disconnected; then his face changed, and, with a terrible cry, he flung his head down on his arms.

"Oh Hester, tell me what it is I have lost! Sometimes I almost reach it—it is in my mind, something beautiful which I almost grasp, and then it eludes me and fades away. I have lost it now, Hester! Hester! take me home!"

She kissed him and soothed him with womanly words, and when he was more composed she led him away.

Soon after they were married. In vain Hester's friends threatened and opposed her. She was quietly determined.

"He loved me when friends and fortune smiled upon him," she answered them. "He would have given me every great gift which the world was ready to bestow on him for the love of his beauti

FIRST CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT CONVENTION.

A Republican Convention for the First Congressional District, N. C., will be held at Plymouth, N. C., on Thursday, 21st of May 1874, and be convened at 12 o'clock of that day, for the purpose of placing in nomination a Republican candidate to represent the District in the 34th Congress of the United States, and for the transaction of such other business as may be deemed proper. Delegates entitled to a seat and vote in the Convention must be regularly delegated by a county Convention called by a county Committee through their regular chairman. Each county of the District is entitled, under the plan of organization, to as many votes as it has members in the House Branch of the Legislature.

County committees of the counties composing the District are requested to call their county conventions early, so as to ensure their counties representation in the District convention.

THE CONGRESSIONAL QUESTION.

There are several aspirants to be the successor of Mr. COBB in Congress. The desire is a laudable one, and we wish it to be distinctly understood that in these columns we have not a disparaging word to say against either of them. Our preference is no secret. We have our reasons and we have frankly stated them. In supporting Mr. COBB we do not attack any who are aspiring for the succession. That the latter should have their friends is natural. We do not complain of it. Personal relations are sometimes of a character to make it assume the nature of ingratitude to "go back on a friend."

One thing is certain. No Republican questions Mr. COBB's devotion to the great principles of the party. Not a man charges him with non-performance of duty. Not one. The only objection we have ever heard is: "He has had it long enough, let some other good Republican have a chance." But seriously fellow Republicans, is this a valid objection? think of it. Are the interests of the people of the District secondary to the selfish ambition of any man?

Had Mr. COBB been indolent; had he proved himself inefficient; had he neglected to studiously and industriously embrace the opportunities offered him, during the years he has been in Congress, to acquire the experience and influence to make him useful to his District and State, we too would have said give us a new man—one that will use these opportunities to the best advantage.

But Mr. COBB did not neglect his opportunities. He felt the responsibilities resting upon him as the Representative from the First District of North Carolina, and in addition to the experience which only comes from years of service, he has acquired the influence at the Departments and among his fellow members and with Senators that enables him to serve us as no new man can.

As we stated in a former issue, CALHOUN and WEBSTER and CLAY and STEVENS, giants in intellect as they were, exerted but little influence during their first years in Congress. It took them time, as it does all new members, and years of actual participation in the business of legislation and the routine of the Departments to acquire the tact and skill needful to accomplish anything. A new man from this District then—no matter what his intellectual abilities might be—would be a mere cipher for one or two sessions at least.

MR. COBB AN EARNEST WORKER.

It is by no means always the case that the man who makes the noisiest speeches in Congress is the most efficient and useful member. "When I was a very young man," said once a quiet but very efficient minister, "I used to think it was the thunder that did all the mischief, but now I know that it is the lightning." And so it is with constituents; they soon learn that it is not the fussy, gassy, blabby representative who, having nothing to say is always saying it, that does their business and promotes their interests, but the quiet cautious, cunning, vigilent member who puts his work "where it will do the most good."

And this has been the course of our popular Member Hon. C. L. COBB. He has not been noisy and over demonstrative, but he has all the time been working. He has ever been alive to all home measures; busy in committee and at member's desks; sleepless in vigilance and unfiring in efficient effort. And these are the kind of men who always win. This is the secret or Mr. COBB's popularity and strength. It would be a great misfortune to the District to lose his services now.

THE CURRENCY BILL VETOED.

President GRANT has vetoed the currency bill. His reasons show that he had been in some doubt as to his duty in the premises. In reply to the argument that certain sections were insufficiently supplied with currency, he stated that $4,000,000 of currency for the opening of banks remains in the Treasurer, besides $25,000,000 authorized to be taken from States having the most currency, subject to the demand of sections desiring it, and that the knowledge of this fact has decided his course. He recommends legislation for the increase of revenue and the return as speedily as practicable to specie payments in accordance with the views expressed in his previous messages. Of course one party has to be disappointed, and the reasons given by the President are such as must convince the inflationists that the veto is the result of conscientious and careful consideration, and an honest desire to use this high privilege for the good of the country as he sees it. If others see it differently, and feel greatly chagrined, they will upon reflection be forced to admit that it is the duty of the President to insist upon doing what to him seems best in a matter of such grave importance to the nation.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

The vitality and power of the Republican organization has always consisted in the profound convictions which animated the great body of its members. It was not tradition which brought them under its banner. It was not blind and unreasoning devotion which determined their allegiance. The Republican party came into being as the expression of the quickened conscience of the country in favor of the great principles of human liberty and equal rights to all men, and the moral impulse which procured its birth has moulded its character and shaped its history.

Of course, like every successful party, it has attracted unprincipled adventurers and self seekers, but underneath everything that might appear on the surface, the great body of the organization has been composed, so far as the whole country is concerned, of the best elements of the American people. They have stood together because there were great objects to be accomplished and because they had faith that these grand national ends could only be subserved through the success of the Republican party. And they remain attached to it now because they believe it still embodies the best purposes and hopes of the country.

THE AMERICAN CENTENNIAL.

We see that the Committe in charge of the preparations for the coming Centennial are prosecuting their labors with energy. Having determined upon their plans, they are proceedingly vigorously and prudently to their execution. It would have been more in harmony with the republican and patriotic sentiment of the nation, if the exhibition had been purely and simply American, and the fitness of the thing would have commended itself to whole country, and to the whole world. But as it has been decided to make it international and to invite the lovers of free institutions in all lands to participate in the second jubilee of American Independence, it is the duty, and will be the pride and pleasure of every citizen of the United States to extend his aid and good wishes, that it may be worthy of the nation and the event it is to celebrate. It is fitting that it should be held in Philadelphia. Of all places in the United States that is the place for such an exhibition as is now proposed. Its citizens are coming up to the work nobly.

HON. J. W. ALBERTSON.

This gentleman is making a splendid impression as a Judge. Before he went on the Bench he was known as one of the ablest lawyers in Eastern North Carolina. There are few men possessing a clearer intellect and very few who think more profoundly or are able to so fully grasp the points and issues continually coming up in legal practice. He performs his duty with dignity and great fairness. He is popular with the Bar and has the the full confidence of the people.

In this District we are to have an election for Judge in August. The friends of Judge ALBERTSON are urging him to be a candidate. We believe this is the almost unanimous wish of the Republicans of the Disirict. We do not think there is a dissenting voice. If nominated, we believe that he will be elected. And he ought to be. We have tried him and have found him to be a good Judge. Let us keep him.

THOMAS R. PURNELL.

We are gratified to learn that it is the intention of our candidate for Superintendent of Public Instruction to canvass the State and that he designs going into every county. This is well. The people will be glad to hear him as he is a gentleman of pleasing address and a good speaker.

Mr. PURNELL is yet a young man, but is full of energy and is in full sympathy with the liberal and progressive spirit of the age. Both his education and training fit him for the position to which he has been nominated. Let him have an earnest support, and especially from the young men of the State.

WILLIS BAGLEY ESQ.

The position of Solicitor is by no means a sinecure one. The duties devolving on him require patience, discrimination and labor. Mr. BAGLEY has more than met public expectation. He has filled the office ably, prudently and satisfactorily. We believe we express the general sentiment and wish of the party when we say that he should be selected as the Republican candidate at the August election.

We see by the Mountain Echo, publishd at Shickshinny, Pa., that somebody has suggested the name of Col. SAMUEL KNORR, of Bloomsburg, as a candidate for Lieutenant Governor! It is said that his nomination is urged upon the score of merit!! This must be intended as a burlesque or a joke. As to his military career, there are those who could "a tale relate" of exploits in the rear and of a resignation when actual fighting began. If keeping out of danger while in the service and of practicing treachery to friends in political life fit a man for Lieutenant Governor then this redoubtable Colonel is the man. But the Republicans of the Old Keystone are not in the habit of making candidates out of such material.

The President's direction to the Secretary of War to order the commander of the United States military post at Little Rock, Arkansas, to preserve the peace and prevent bloodshed, will meet the approval of all parties. If not permited to fight, the friends of the two rival Governors, or claimants of the gubernatorial chair, will be compelled to submit the claims of their chiefs to the adjudication of the coutrs.

That is so, especially among those who by gerrymandering managed to become the law makers of North Carolina. The sins of commission and omission of the late Legislature are well calculated to cause the Observer and all good wishers of our good old State to deplore this "great want."

Late frosts have done very great damage in nearly all parts of the country. The Norfolk Virginian estimates the damage done to the fruit growers of that neighborhood at $500,000.

There is a revival among the colored Methodists of Danville, Va. At all hours of the day and night they can be heard shouting, either at their private houses or on the streets.

The Independent Order of Rechabites at Elizabeth City.

J. W. H. Wrenn, H. C. R. Independent Order of Rechabites of North America, assisted by P. C. R. Epes, C. R. James M. Black, D. R. Lenard Sikes, R. S. E. Black and Walter Fentreis of Palestine Tent, No. 40 I. O. R., came down from Norfolk on Saturday, 25, inst, in response to an application for the instalation of a Tent of Rechabites in this city. They proceeded to install Albemarle Tent, No. 54, I. O. R. by the introduction into office of the following named Brethren: P. C. R. J. H. Waugh, C. R. Thos. Commander, D. R. Jos. Commander. R. Secretary S. Benbury, F. S. Newton Underwood, T. S. E. Overby, L. Robert Sawyer, I. G. S. T. Meades, O. G. W. T. Hall, R. S. to C. R. H. B. Coleman, L. S. G. H. Kesler.

This Tent has opened under the most favorable auspicies, and is destined, it is to be hoped, to accomplish much in reclaiming the inebriate. The ceremony incident to the installation of this Tent, together with the explanations of the work, was not completed until near midnight of the 25th. Much interest was manifested throughout the whole proceedings, as was evinced by an assemblage of the membership on Sunday evening for the purpose of further instruction.

Albemarle Tent, No. 54, is now a fixture of Elizabeth City, and affords a safe asylum from the pursuits of the viscious and unprincipled. The Instaling officer and assistants left for their homes on Monday morning, well satisfied with their work and well pleased with the cordial reception extended them during their stay. A provision of the General Laws of the order authorises the establishment of a Jr. Order of Rechabites composed of youths from 12 to 18 years, who are controlled by two officers from the Senior Tent, under whose supervision they are placed. This feature commends itself to parents and should be availed of by them that they may have some assurance that their sons may escape the evils by which ungaurded youth are surrounded.

THE UNSETTLED WEATHER.—A FRESHET.—JACK FROST.—DULL TIMES. &c.

The weather still remains cold and unsettled, and our farmers are complaining, not being able to seed the cotton crop, and make other necessary arrangements so important at this period of the season.

We have quite a freshet in the Roanoke, the fishermen had to suspend operations last week for few days, but are again at work doing remarkably well.

The last cold snap used up the early garden vegetables; Capt. Jack was too heavy in his charge upon them; not Modoc Jack, but the gentleman whose head grows white in a single night, Jack Frost; and we are all busy in this locality at reconstruction.

The Steamer Commerce has been raised by Capt. Baker, and left for Norfolk, where she has been this arrived, and will undergo repairs.

Our community has the whooping-cough as well as dull times. Most of the elite gentlemen of pleasure here while away the time in the exciting game of marbles on the sidewalks, the Town Constable is the General Lisimore. Everybody owning tickets is looking forward to the grand Gift Masonic Concert which is to come off in Norfolk on the 5th of May; building castles in the air, each expecting to get the capital prize. Our commissioners are pushing things through on the last quarter, and the unique market house is under full blast, it will have one of Wise's balloon engines in it when finished to take arerial flights in any direction or at any point and locate indefinitely, to suit the conveniance of the butchers, and their patrons. All right, anything good Lord, these hard times but a bust-up. Alas poor Yoric. R.

MEANS WHAT HE SAYS.

Though "confirmations strong as proofs of Holy Writ" and as numerous as the sands on the sea shore, were produced to prove that the proprietor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is in earnest, and means what he says, when he offers $500 reward for any case of Catarrh which he can not cure, yet there would be some skeptics and fogies who would continue to shout "Humbug!" "Humbug!" "It cannot be, because Dr. Homespun says Cattarrh cannot be cured." Now, this Dr. Homespun is the identical, good natured old fellow who honestly believes and persists in declaring that this earth is not round or spherical, but as flat as a "slap-jack," and does not turn over, otherwise the water would all be spilled out of Deacon Bascom's mill pond. But astronomical science has positively demonstrated and proven that Dr. Homespun is wrong in supposing the earth to be flat and stationary, and medical science is daily proving the fact that he is no less mistaken and behind the times in regard to the curability of Catarrh. In short it has been positively proven that this world moves, and that medical science is progressive—the opinion of Dr. Homespun to the contrary notwithstanding. That Dr. Sage's Cattarrh Remedy will cure Catarrh, thousands who have used it attest.

Then buy it, and use it, in doubt do not stand, You will find it in drug stores all over the laud.

[Catskill Recorder of Nov. 15, 1872,]

A GOOD REMEDY.

We invite attention to the advertisement of Sage's Cattarrh Remedy. Our readers will bear us witness that we never knowingly commend humbugs of any name or nature, and a large portion of patent medicines may safely be classed as impositions upon public credulity. But having witnessed the beneficial effects of Sage's Remedy upon the members of our family and others, in Catarrhal cases, we unqualifiedly pronounced it a valuable medicine, entitled to public confidence. The proprietor could easily obtain in Catskill many certificates of its merits.

From Washington.

Business of a miscellanious character occupied a good deal of the time of the Senate the past week. A bill for the relief of the suffers from the flood in Louisiana was passed. A bill was introduced to enable Indians to become citizens of the United States. The Presidents veto on the currency bill was received.

In the House the President was authorized to issue rations and clothes to the sufferers by the inundations of the Mississippi. Quite a number of new bills and resolutions were introduced and referred. Much time was taken up considering the Legislative Appropriation bill. Among these was one providing for the withdrawal of $25.000,000 of banking currency from States which have more than their proportion, and distributing the same in the States that have less than they are entitled to under the law.

"A WONDER OF MEDICAL SCIENCE," may well be applied to Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. It is nearly half a century since this remarkable remedy was introduced to the public, and yet the immediate and enviable reputation which it gained by its wonderful cures of coughs, colds hooping cough, sore throat, influenza, consumption, and all bronchial complaints, is to this day fully sustained.

Items from Washington.

The House Judiciary Committee have agreed upon a bill restoring Southern pensioners to the rolls. The present law excludes those who sympatized with the confederacy.

Senator Davis has introdneed a bill to reduce the tax on the circulation of the State banks to an amount not greater than that on National banks This he intends as a measure of relief for the bssiness of the South and West, which the inflationists represent as suffering for want of a circulating medium.

The President has informed General Garfield that he would approve a bill which provided for free banking, with the further provision that as new bank notes were issued greenbacks to the extent of 50 per cent; of the amount of the new issue be retired, this process to continue until the volume of greenback circulation was reduced to 300,000,000.

Commenting on the situation the Washington Republican says: The present situation of the Republican party presents nothing new; nothing novel. Those of its members who favor inflation are naturally disappointed at the failure of their cherished hopes. They will feel compelled, in vindication of themeelves and in justice to their constituents, to complete the record of their devotion to an especial theory by opposing this single act of their chosen leaders. Otherwise the grumbling which the opposition would magnify in ominous threats is the harmless vaporing fleeting chagrin.

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has ruled that a demand for payment of a note must be made at a reasonable time of day; if at a private residene, not at an hour when it may be presumed that the family is in bed; and if at a place of business within business hours

PAIN-KILLER!

TIME TESTS THE MERITS OF ALL THINGS.

Thirty Years is certainly long enough time to prove the efficacy of any medicine, and that the Pain Killer is deserving of all its proprietors claim for it, is amply proved by the unparelleled popularity it has attained. It is a sure and effective remedy. It is sold in almost every country in the world, and it needs only to be known to be prized, and its reputation as a Medicine of Great Virtue, is fully and permanently established. It is the great Family Medicine of the age. Taken internally, it cures Dysentery, Cholera, Diarrhoea, Cramp and Pain in the Stomach, Bowell Complaint, Painters' Colic, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Sudden Colds, Sore Throat and Coughs. Taken Externally, it cures Bruises, Boils, Felons, Cuts, Burns, Scalds, Old Sores and Sprains, Swellings of the Joints, Toothache, Pain in the Face, Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Chapped Hands, Frost Bitten Feet, &c.

Pain is supposed to be the lot of us poor morals, as inevitable as death, and liable at any time to come upon us. Therefore, it is important that remedial agents should be at hand to be used on emergency, when we are made to feel the excruciating agony of pain, or the depressing influences of disease. Such a remedial exists in Perry Davis' "Pain-Killer," the fame of which has extended over all the earth. Amid the eternal ices of the Polar regions, or beneath the intolerable and burning suns of the tropics its virtues are known and appreceiated. And by it suffering humanity has found relief from many of its ills. The effect of the Pain-Killer upon the patient, when taken internally in cases of Cough, Cold, Bowel Complain, Cholera, Dysentery, and other affections of the system, has been truly wonderful, and has won for it a name among medical preparations that can never be forgotten. Its success in removing pain, as an external remedy, in case of Burns, Bruises, Sores and Sprains, Cuts, Stings of Insects, &c., and other causes of suffering has secured for it the most prominent position among the medicines of the day. Beware of counterfeits and worthless imitations. Call for Perry Davis' Vgetable Pain-Killer, and take no other.

It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

☞ We understand that some of the Fisheries propose winding up this week.

☞ Judge ALBERTSON is holding Court in Perquimans this week.

☞ The proceedings of the School meeting at Plymouth reached us too late for this issue.

☞ It will be seen by the proceedings of the Republican Convention of Pitt county that her delegates are instructed to support Mr. COBB for Congress.

☞ Never desert a friend. You may sometime get your deserts if you do. Never "throw mud." It may miss the object, but it always will defile the thrower.

☞ By the call of Col. CARROW, the Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee, it will be seen that the Republican Congressional Convention will be held at Plymouth on the 21st day of May.

☞ A number of articles intended for this issue have been crowded out. Among them is No. 3 of "North Carolina Women during the Revolution." Our space is limited and our friends must exercise patience.

☞ Candidates are getting active. To each aspirant urging his claims there can be no objection. It is fair and legitimate. But be careful gentlemen how you speak disparagingly of rivals. Misrepresentation and abuse never pays.

☞ We have received the proceedings of a Republican meeting held at Cresswell, Washington county, on the 14th inst. The resolutions endorse Hon. C. L. COBB for Congress, Hon. LOUIS HILLIARD for Judge of the Second District and Jos. J. MARTIN for Solicitor.

☞ LINDSEY was at Mt. Herman, on Saturday and made a speech. He foolishly went out of his way to publicly attack prominent Republicans and, as might have been expected, a reply was made placing him hors de combat. The gallant Republicans of Mt. Herman do not propose to "go back" on their true and tried friends. Not much.

☞ The canvas for the Municipal election in this city is thus far a very quiet one. Let it remain so. There is no occasion for excitement or bitterness. Let every man vote according to his convictions of duty as a good citizen and the result will be for the best. As our friends have put our name on one of the tickets, modesty forbids us saying more.

☞ We wish it distinctly understood that we will not consider, much less publish, articles or communications not accompanied by the real name and address of the author. We have repeated this so often that the fact ought to be pretty well known by this time and yet there are those who foolishly throw away time, paper and postage stamps in this manner.

☞ The individuals who are making themselves busy trying to alienate prominent Republicans in this county by their efforts to bring about misunderstandings, bad feelings and strife are so well understood and the animus actuating them is so thoroughly appreciated that their "well laid plans" will ignominiously fail. The men they hope to influence have higher aims and grander purposes that to gratify those who would rule where they cannot rule.

☞ Several correspondents want to know why it is that the Democrats are manifesting such an anxiety to have Mr. COBB defeated in the nomination for Congress? We know the reason, for they do not conceal it. They know that he cannot be beaten at the ballot box. One of the other aspirants they think could be. But rest easy gentlemen. The Republicans of the District are not going to gratify their enemies by making a weak or foolish nomination.

☞ We desire to see our town improve. We spare no effort in promoting what we conceive to be its interests. It is our adopted home—all our interests are here. Its prosperity is our prosperity. What benefits it cannot fail to benefit us. Hence, we repeat, we feel and take a deep interest in every matter of public improvement; every local measure looking to development, progress and advancement. With all these we have been closely identified and we expect to keep on that line to the end.

☞ A question of no little interest to a large class of our people has been settled at last—we mean the long pending controversy in relation to the liability of canal boats and other vessels employed on the canals of the several States to pay the Custom House fees and to license and enrolment. An act has passed Congress signed by the President on the 18, inst., exempting all such boats, excepting only such as are provided with sails or propelling machinery of their own, and such as are employed in trade with the Canadas.

☞ The latest quotations are, at New York, Gold 112⅜; Cotton 18¼ c; Corn 86 c. At Norfolk, Cotton 16½ c; Corn 83 c; meal $1.

☞ The Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee publishes a call for two county Conventions, both to be held on the same day. In our judgement it would have been better to have deferred the latter until about the usual time, in July. It would have made the County canvass long enough.

☞ The individual who sent the false report over the Sound in relation to certain nominations in Elizabeth City didn't sufficiently cover his tracks to escape detection. Some people are like the ostrich. They think that by hiding their little heads their great carcasses become invisible.

☞ A cotemporary says that ADVERTISE is made up of two words advert and eyes (the latter rather doubtful) and signifies to advert the eyes of the public to some specified object or other. Advertise by all means, and so you will advert men's eyes to your business and prosper as you deserve—if you advertise.

☞ Col. D. MCD. LINDSEY is again an aspirant for the Congressional nomination. He is in the field making an energetic canvass. Of course he has his friends and a number of very warm ones. He is a good worker, has an inexhaustible fund of humor, unhesitatingly cracks his practical jokes at the expense of his adversaries and generally makes things lively wherever he goes.

☞ The Republicans of Chowan held their Convention to appoint Congressional delegates on Saturday last. The crowded condition of our columns obliges us to defer the publication of the proceedings until our next issue. The delegation is instructed to support AUGUSTUS M. MOORE Esq., for Congress. He is a native of Chowan, is a man of ability and in the past two campaigns rendered good and efficient service.

☞ "A rose by any other name" is often quoted, and has been suggested by a letter from a friend in another part of the District who finds the people slow to make progress in favor of the cause in which he is working. They call his persistency, after repeated failures, "dogged obstinacy." He calls it "firmness," and he may be encouraged by another maxim, "industry may fail but perseverance will prevail."

☞ The NORTH CAROLINIAN has always tried to be consistent. Its editor has ever set his face against disorganizers and factious demagogueism. This was so clearly manifest to the Republicans of Currituck in 1872 that at their County Convention, held on the 17th of May, they felt called upon to say in their 7th resolution:

"We endorse the fearless and outspoken course of the Editor of the NORTH CAROLINIAN in the way he rebukes "bolters" and maintains true Republican principles."

This endorsement was spontaneous, voluntary, and we appreciated it. As we stood in 1872 we stand in 1874. The same political chart that guides us now we followed then. We know no change. Factions may try to rule the hour and demagogues may attempt to "teach us our duty as the publisher of a Republican newspaper." It will be labor lost. The sober second thought of the people will rule at last, and as for us, we are a little too old to take lessons from such teachers.

LOCAL BRIEFS.—The Municipal election occurs on Monday next. Attend to being registered.—Federal Court adjourned on Thursday.—There are a number of Northern visitors in the city this week.—M. B. CULPEPPER is bragging on his beans. He claims that they are six inches high. We asked him to compromise on five inches, but he wouldn't.—The Odd Fellows new Hall at this place was dedicated on Monday. The ceremonies were imposing, the parade fine and the Ball at the "Albemarle House" in the evening splendid.—Hon. GEO. W. BROOKS left on Friday to hold court at New Berne.—Albemarle Tent No. 54, Independent Order of Rechabites was put in working order in this city on Saturday evening last.—See Weisel's new advertisement.—A slight hail storm last night.

"Mr. Conductor, pray tell us how you hold these cars when you want them to stop," said a frightened lady while descending the almost perpendicular road from the Tiptop House on the White Mountains. "We apply the brake, Madam." "Suppose the brake should give way, what then?" "We then apply the double acting brake." "But Mr. Conductor, suppose that brake should not be sufficient to stop the cars, where would we go then?" "Madam," said the conductor, solemnly, "I can't possibly decide. that depends entirely upon how we have lived in this world."

SUSTAIN THE SINKING SYSTEM.—The flashes of excitement produced by the stimulants in ordinary use, are followed by a reaction that is always more or or less injurious. Just as the darkness, illuminated for a moment by the lightning's glare, becomes apparently blacker than ever after the flash is over, so the mental gloom and physical debility that vanish temporarily under the influence of a dram, return with a ten-fold intensity when the first transient effect ceases. Yet physicans habitually prescribe the liquors of commerce for patients suffering from bodily weakness and mental despondency. The true remedy in such cases is a pure stimulant medicated with the finest tonics and alternatives which the vegetable kingdom affords, and Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the only preparation at present known which thoroughly meets the emergency. The effect of this popular restorative is continuous. Each dose taken invigorates the vital energies and the brain, and its prolonged use will unquestionably cure any case of debility, hypochondria or mental torpidity that does not arise from organic causes beyond the reach of medicine. It is, in the strictest sense of the word, an invigorating and regulating cordial. If the nerves are tremulous and relaxed it braces them; if the bowels are constipated, it relieves them; if the liver is torpid, it promotes activity in that organ; if the mind is gloomy it clears away the clouds; if the appetite is poor and digestion a slow and painful operation, it creates a relish for food, and enables the stomach to convert it into healthful aliment. Moreover, it is specific for a large number of ailments, some of which are particularly prevalent in the damp and chilly weather which we so often experience in mid winter. Among these may be mentioned rheumatism, chills and fever, and all the morbid conditions of the digestive and secretive organs superinduced by sudden changes of temperature and the inclemencies of the season.

Hints about Harness.

Mr. F. C. Curtis of Beloit, Wisconsin, who states that he has had an experience in leather and harness making of 26 years' duration, has set down the results of his accumulated knowledge in a series of practical papers, which we find printed in The Prairie Farmer. He starts with the calculation that for each of the 9,000,000 horses in the country, $11 is invested in leather; that this lasts on an average 10 years, making an annual cost for harness of $10,000,000. With proper management and very little trouble and expense this might be made to last a quarter longer and thus while presenting a more agreeable appearance and being easier for the horses, insure a saving each year of the snug sum of $2,500,000. As the loss of oil invites decay the question naturally arises; How shall we remedy this loss in the most effective manner? If we watch the leather dresser, we shall find that he applies the oil when the leather is wet, so that the oil will go in as the water goes out; and we shall also find that he delights to do this in cold weather, when he can get a good freeze on the leather. Now these rules applicable with equal or greater force to all upper or harness leather, where oil is required to soften it or preserve its qualities. Mr. Curtis puts no faith in the well-advertised "leather preservatives," and "water-proofs," as they are very likely to contain copperas, sulphate of iron, or other injurious substances that eat out the life of the leather. Pure neatsfoot oil is the best; goose oil is good; liver or tanner's oil is useful to soften, while tallow tends to fill up the pores and keep out water. The addition of beeswax to the tallow would have a tendency to harden the leather and keep out water, and a further addition of a little lampblack would improve its appearance. Neatsfoot oil, as sold, is usually adulterated. A better article can be made by chopping up the feet of cattle and boiling them freely; cover all with water, and when cold skim of the oil and cleanse it. A pint to a set of feet is costly, but it is valuable. Harness ought not to be used longer than six months without oiling, and Mr. Curtis describes his practice as follows:

I take my harness apart, or unbuckle it as much as convenient, and put it into the soap suds of the last washing, giving it a good soaking, then take it out upon a bench of the proper high for convenience, and remove all the dirt and gummy substance with the assistance of a stiff brush and the soap suds. I then find it just the time to make necessary repairs. By this time the water has dried from the surface, and I then apply the oil and a little lamblack mixed, with a common paint brush, and dry in the shade; if frozen all the better. When dry wipe off with a cloth and put together.

The Product of One Hundred Grains of Wheat.

Clear Rich Square, }
Northampton County, N. C. }

Messrs. Editors:—The following may prove a source of interest to some experimenting farmer among your readers. I was prompted some time ago to see how much wheat could be raised from 100 grains in one year, which I will give in detail, so that others can try the same or some other methods.

I selected a piece of land which had been in wheat a few months prior, and was quite poor. I flushed it up the first week in September a year ago, with a one-horse plow, then let it remain until the first of October, when flushed again, then marked out four rows about the centre of the same, two feet apart; then drilled common fowl manure in two, and horse-stable manure in the others; then plowed, and levelled with a rake; then planted each row by hand, placing the grains twelve inches apart; then sowed the ballance of the land with same quality of wheat, this being done, not an hour's work was spent on it until it was time to reap. A short time after planting, a mole slipped in and was aiming to devour my best efforts, but I offered a little boy twenty-five cents to catch him. The little fellow set to work, and in a few days took him out, and immediately returned for his pay, well pleased with his quarter, whilst I again enjoyed the hope of carrying out my experiment.

On June 20th last, on arriving at the patch found that I only had a medium crop, I set to work, however, and counted some of the best hills in each row, which resulted as follows:

First row, best hills, 39 stalks; second row, best hills, 32 stalks; third row, best hill, 28 stalks; fourth row, best hill, 16 stalks.

I then proceeded to reap the first hill and bind it separately; I then reaped 99 others in the same row, which I set in the barn and let remain four weeks, I then selected the best head from the first package and after being cleaned found that it contained 75 good grains of wheat, next I enumerated the balance of said hill and found it to contain 1,400 grains, collectively 1,475 grains; the other 99 hills I cleaned with care and then weighed collectively, and found that I had four and a-half pounds good clean wheat as the product for one hundred grains.

Now I think if some energetic farmer will try the experiment on 100 grains he can exceed my report; I would thank him to have the result printed in The Baltimore American.—Baltimore American.

Apple Orcharding

It makes much difference in the profit whether trees bear when apples are plenty, or in sensons of scarcity. I can make trees bear in odd years by picking the fruit when small, in the seasons when apples are plenty. The owners of cider mills in this vicinity, when apples are plenty, buy them for 10 cents a bushel, and get a barrel of cider from eight bushels of apples. The next season he sells that cider $5 a barrel at the cellar. C. E. L. Hayward of Peterboro, N. H., has about 1,000 apple trees in bearing; some of them are small, and do not bear very large crops. He had over 400 barrels of apples and over 40 barrels of cider in 1873. From one orchard of of five acres he picked 250 barrels of Baldwins and 20 barrels of other varieties. The apples were sold for $1,200. The trees are about 22 years old. The land is very rough and rocky. A man in Hancock, N. H., bought a farm in July, 1873, for $800, got the hay and picked the apples, and sold the latter for $400. When land is $100 per acre some other crop may pay better; but when land is rough, and the soil well adapted to the growing of apples, I think they will pay well.—Boston Cultivator.

BREAKING OXEN.—The breaking—or training, which is the better word—of any animal should be done in its early youth, and done carefully, patiently, and kindly. A farmer should make friends of his stock, and not enemies, and confidence and not fear should be encouraged in them. Then there will be no trouble with vicious cows and oxen in aftertimes, nor any necessity for the very objectionable method you recommend of "making incisions at the root of the horn, so that the leading rop will inflict pain when the animal attemps to break away." "The righteous man is merciful to his beast."

VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

If men will enjoy good health, let them use VINEGAR BITTERS as a medicine, and avoid the use of alcoholic stimulants in every form.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc., etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Jaundice.—In all cases of jaundice, rest assured that your liver is deranged its work. The only sensible treatment is to promote the secretion of the bile and favor its removal. For this purpose use VINEGAR BITTERS.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

GEORGE D. POOL.

Real Estate Agent,

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalisis and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In longevity and healthfulness, it will compare favorably with any where and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the sociability of the people, in great fertility and durability of soil, no section can equal it.

A railroad will soon be built to Norfolk, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing, farming and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

A farm of 700 acres in Pasquotank County 10 miles from town, with fine two story dwelling, large barn, kitchen and other outhouses; as also, two other dwellings, barns and other houses at different points on the farm. This farm is all cleared but 150 acres, is free from swamps and other waste land, and is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, &c. The price is 14,000 in easy payments.

A farm of 500 acres in Pasquotank County, 6 miles from town, and one mile from the River, with good new dwelling built in modern style, barn, stables, four tenant houses scattered over the farm, fine water, &c. This farm is situated on the most public road in the County, has 300 acres cleared and balance in splendid pine, oak, cypress, maple, sweet gum, and other valuable timber. It is peculiarly adapted to raising cotton, $50 per acre, net, having been realized on a part of it this year in cotton. It also grows corn, wheat, oats, and other crops well. Price $12,000 in easy payments.

Two tracts of land lying on Pasquotank River four miles from town, neatly cleared, and in good cultivation, one contains 1,000 acres, and the other 600 acres. Both have good fisheries, and the land is equal to any in this section. Price $20.00 per acre in easy payments. Also several smaller tracts for sale, ranging from 50 to 100 acres each, at low prices, and on easy terms.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotank county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church, school house and post office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with fair buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large barn, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Three farms—one of 100 acres, one of 80 acres and one of 190 acres, within two miles of town, mostly cleared land. Price $20 per acre for each tract—payments on easy terms. Also many other valuable farms and town lots too numerous to mention.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1874—SEVENTH YEAR.

THE ALDINE.

An illustrated Monthly Journal, universally admitted to be the Handsomest Periodical in the world. A Representative and Champion of American Taste,

Not for Sale in Book or News Stores.

THE ALDINE, while issued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light and graceful literature; and a collection of pictures; the rarest specimens of artistic skill, in black and white. Although each succeedsng number affords fresh pleasure to its friends, the real value and beauty of the ALDINE will be most apprehiated after it has been bound up at the close of the year. While uther publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with a similar class, THE ALDINE is an unique and original codception—alone and unapproached—absolutely wilhont competition in price or character. The possessor of a complete volume cannot duplicate the quality of fine paper and engravings in any other shape or number of volumes for ten times its cost and then, there are the chromo besides.

ART DEPARTMENT, 1874.

The illustrations of THE ALDINE have won a world wide reputation, and in the art centres of Europe it is an admitted fact teat its wood cuts are examples of the highest perfection ever attained. The common prejudice in favor of "steel plates," is rapidly yieldidg to a more educated and discriminating taste which recognizes the advantages of superior artistic quality with greater facilities of prodnction. The wood-cuts of THE ALDINE, possess all the delicacy and elaborate finish of the most costly steel plate, while they afford a better rendering of the actist's original.

To fully realize the wonderful work which THE ALDINE is doing for the cause of art culture in America, it is only necessary to consider the cost to the people of any other decent representations of the productions of great painters.

In addition to designs by the members of the National Academy, and other noted American artists, THE ALDINE will reproduce examples of the best foreign masters, selected with a view to the highest artistic success and greatest general interest. Thus the subscriber to THE ALDINE will, at the trifling cost, enjoy in his own home, the pleasures and refining influences of true art.

The quarterly tinted plates for 1874 will be by Thos. Morgan and J. D. Woodward.

The Chrismmas issue for 1874 will contain special designs appropriate to the season, by our best artists, and will surpass in attractiveness any of its predecessors.

Premium for 1874.

Every subscriber to THE ALDINE for the year 1874 will receive a pair of chromos. The original pictures were painted in oil for the publishers of THE ALDINE, by Thos. Moran, whose great Colorado picture was purchased by Congress for ten dollars. The subjects were chosen to represent "The East" and "The West." One is a view of the White Mountains New Hampshire; the other gives the Cliffs of Green River, Wyoming, Territory. The difference in the nature of the scenes themselves is a pleasing contrast, and affords a good display of the artist's scope and coloring. The chromos are each worked from thirty distinct plates, and are in size (12 x 16) and appearance exact the similies of the originals. The presentation of a worthy example of America's greatest landscape painter to the subscribers of THE ALDINE was a bold but peculiarly happy idea, and its successful realization is attested by the following testimonal, over the signature of Mr. Moran himself.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 20, 1873.

MESSRS. JAMES SUTTON & Co.

Gentlemen:—I am delighted with the proofs in color of your chromos. They are wonderfully successful repreeantations by mechanical process of the original paintings.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) THOS. MORAN.

These chromos are in every sense American. They are by an original American process, with material manufacture, from designs of American scenery by an American Art Journal. If no better because of all this, they will certainly possess an interest no foreign production can inspire and neither are they any worse if by reason of peculiar facilities of production they cost the publishers only a trifle, while equal in every respect to other chromos that are sold singly for double the subscription of THE ALDINE. Persons of taste will prize these pictures for themselves—not for the price they did or did not cost, and will appreciate the enterprize that renders their distribution possible.

If any subscriber should indicate a preferance for a figure subject, the publishers will send "Thoughts of Home," a new and beautiful chromo, 14 x 20 inches representing a little Italian exile whose speaking eyes betray the longings of his heart.

TERMS.

$5 per annum, in advance, with Or Chromo free.

For 50 cents extra the chromos will be sent mounted, varnished and prepaid by mail.

THE ALDINE will, hereafter, be obtained only by subscription. There will be no reduced or club rate; cash for subscriditions most be sent to the publishers diecct, or handed to the local canvasser, without responsibility to the publishers, except in cases where the certificate is given, bearing the facsimile signature of JAMES SUTTON & Co.

Canvassers Wanted.

THE GREAT BALOON.

You've heard about the great balloon,
In which Professor Wise
Proposed to go to Europe,
By sailing through the skies,
He proposed to show the people
A quicker way for trips
Than ever had been known before,
By sailing o'er in ships.

Well everything seemed lovely
Upon that Autumn day,
When they began to pump in gas
To bear the barge away.
They pumped and pumped with all their power,
And things seemed nigh adjusted—
When there came an awful crash,
And the mighth bubble busted.

It's ever thus in human life,
Go whereso'er we may,
The darkest night will oft succeed
The brightest, sunniest day,
There are exceptions to this rule,
Where all the days are fair,—
For one, go down to JOHNSON'S HALL,
You'll find things all right there.

We've thought it best in cases like this,
This little fact to mention;
You need nat ferr that they'll inflate
Beyond their power of retention.
And when they undertake to go
Their geer's so well adjusted,
They'll move straigh forward to their work,
With no fear of being "busted."
